Peter F. Mulhall is the director of the Institute of Government and Public Affairs' Center for Prevention Research and Development. He has held that position since 1997 and has been with CPRD since 1991. Dr. Mulhall has a master's degree in health studies from Indiana University and a doctorate in community health from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. He has extensive experience in the fields of health education and prevention, and has worked on a number of federal, state and local projects related to the evaluation of programs and interventions that target academic failure, substance abuse, and related problems.

Elizabeth Powers has been a professor at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign since 1996. She has organized and participated in numerous events for Illinois policymakers. Her area of expertise is the analysis of social policies, including social security, welfare and public health insurance. She is interested in policy design, the impact of these policies on families, and their financing. Professor Powers recently directed a comprehensive study of the state of Illinois' reimbursement system for community providers of mental health and developmental disability services pursuant to a mandate of the Illinois General Assembly. The report can be found at https://netfiles.uiuc.edu/epowers/www/index\_files/Final\_Report.htm. Before joining the University of Illinois, Professor Powers was an economist with the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland and a junior staff economist with President George H.W. Bush's Council of Economic Advisers. She holds a PhD in Economics from the University of Pennsylvania and a BA in economics from Vassar College. She is the author of numerous peer-reviewed journal articles and has served on the editorial boards of Economic Development Quarterly and National Tax Journal.
