

About the Institute of Government and Public Affairs

The Institute of Government and Public Affairs seeks to improve public policy and government performance by producing and distributing cutting-edge research and analysis of public policy issues and providing public engagement that enlightens and educates elected officials, students and the general public. The institute was created in 1947 by resolution of the Illinois General Assembly.

IGPA is distinct among premier policy research units because of its dedication to public service. Its work not only advances knowledge but also provides practical assistance to government and public policy makers. The faculty and professionals at IGPA are dedicated to responding rapidly to the challenges facing society and assisting government to meet those challenges. They are also out front with innovative research, cutting-edge education, pragmatic training, and informed consultation. IGPA faculty hold joint appointments with departments such as political science, economics and sociology.

IGPA focuses on critical issues in governance, health policy, public finance, race and public policy and social policy. These programs, along with our policy centers, foster research and programs of public engagement which further IGPA's goal to enhance government's ability to serve the public good by having a thorough understanding of policy issues.

IGPA has four policy centers: the Center for Prevention Research and Development (CPRD); the Center for Technology and Public Policy (CTPP); the Office of Public Leadership (OPL); and the Regional Institute for Community Policing (RICP). These centers concentrate on specific policy areas and develop training and programs to meet the needs of elected leaders, government officials and private-sector leaders. IGPA also forges partnerships with civic organizations and state associations, such as the Jane Addams Hull House Association and the Illinois Municipal League, to open policy discussion to a broader audience beyond government and academia.
